

The International Journal of

Human Rights

Volume 20 Number 5 2016

SPECIAL ISSUE: Terrorism Investigations and Prosecutions
in Comparative Law

GUEST EDITORS: Francesca Galli, Valsamis Mitsilegas and Clive Walker

ISSN 1364-2987

Routledge
Taylor & Francis Group

The International Journal of Human Rights

VOLUME 20

NUMBER 5 2016

SPECIAL ISSUE: Terrorism Investigations and Prosecutions in Comparative Law
GUEST EDITORS: Francesca Galli, Valsamis Mitsilegas and Clive Walker

Introduction

Terrorism investigations and prosecutions in comparative law
Francesca Galli, Valsamis Mitsilegas and Clive Walker 593

Articles

Adversarial vs inquisitorial systems: is there still such a difference?
John R. Spencer 601

Of hearsay and beyond: is the Italian criminal justice system an adversarial system?
Michele Panzavolta 617

Stop and search powers in UK terrorism investigations: a limited judicial oversight?
Genevieve Lennon 634

Post-charge questioning in UK terrorism cases: straining the adversarial process
Clive Walker 649

The interception of communication in France and Italy – what relevance for the development of English law?
Francesca Galli 666

Terrorism and pre-emptive civil processes
Dan Squires QC 684